repairs were completed, — the charge for this additional time is proper & reasonable, because the vessel was unemployed during said period, & the delay & loss were the direct consequence of the seizure. — there is also the further item of Ships Stores consumed by the Texian troops during the voyage, for which they claim two hundred dollars, & a charge for fees paid to Magistrates, hostages & incidental expenses which cannot amount to a less sum than One Hundred Dollars, amounting in the whole to the sum of Five thousand & fifty two dollars & fifty cents $5,052.50 as will appear by the account annexed, for no part of which have they received any compensation either by insurance or otherwise. Your Memorialists further represent, that although they have made up the above account from the documents & proofs which will accompany this memorial, & have agreeably to said proofs stated their loss as above mentioned, yet that sum falls far short of the whole extent of their loss, the Retrieve being a valuable vessel & having been fitted out at great expense, & they had good reason to anticipate a profitable voyage for her, but that in consequence of the seizure
