ing the arrival of other companies from Texas, but being disappointed, Col. Clemens, who had command of the Regiment, or Capt. Stevenson, who had command of the company, (and affiant dis remembers which,) disbanded the company, but did not give to said Hunt, or to any of the volunteers, a written discharge, the company having been disbanded in the open woods. Affiant knows that said Hunt is the identical Thomas C. Hunt who served in the army of Texas as aforesaid in the year 1842, that said Hunt was then a single man, that the company in which Hunt served paid its own expences, without aid from the Government of Texas - and that affiant is not interested in the claim of said Hunt for land or pay for his said services.
