Dillard Cooper being duly sworn further says that owing to the fact that very few of Fannins men survived and that none of them are now living as far as he knows, he is unable to procure further testimony. He would refer the Comptroller to Yoakums History Vol II page 100 where the fact is mentioned that Brooks, Simpson, Hamilton & Dillard Cooper were among those that escaped from the massacre. He avers that he is the man mentioned in the said History.
