and the Company, composed of some Sixty men, then elected one Arnold as Captain, and one Randall as Lieutenant of the Company, the christian names of each are now forgotten. There was also a man in said Company by the name of Donohoe, and also David Rusk, a brother of Hon. Thos J. Rusk Senator from Texas in the United States Congress, was a member of said Company at said time.

From Washington the Company went to the Colorado River, and joined the main Army, Col. Sherman being then Colonel of the regiment over our Company, and the whole under the Command of General Huston - Affiant remained with the Army as a private in said Company and under the Control and direction of said Military Officers, and as a soldier until about the fifteenth day of April 1836, when he was taken sick, and unable to do further military duty, and was granted a furlough for thirty days - on account of said sickness, and went to Trinity River, and remained with a relative
