to those who remit funds of their own or from their individual friends. Such things must be considered on the object of the prisoners-running of his town will be lost or its benefit not felt by so small a portion among so many partakers. Since your departure many of the prisoners in Perote Mexico and the plain particularly in Perote have received remittances through me, therefore in lieu I state I know to be correct.

I have found J. C. Morgan's passage $25 agreeably to your request and your passage $45.—

If I have time I will give you in a P.S. the outlines of the conversation I entered to have with Mr Ryan before he leaves 11th Sept. I have seen Mr Ryan and after talking over the affair of the distribution, we agreed that the best plan would be to give to each of the mechanics prisoners in Perote ten dollars a head which would be of some service to them in procuring them some shirts and a blanket each, I will do the same with those here in Mexico and Puebla if in want and then make no further distribution until I hear from you on the subject.

Mr Ryan has advised me to appoint in his place a Mr Gibbon as one of the distributors among the prisoners in Perote and I shall follow his advice
