The Comptroller is fully justified in the position taken by him in the case of Jacob Grover, and no action can be had on the claim in question until a correct certificate is produced shewing the date of enlistment and of mustering into service in Texas: Pay can then be granted, allowing sixty days as being the extent allowed by law, between the enlistment and muster.

The re-enlistment in this case does not entitle claimant to any more bounty land than he would have acquired if previously enlisted for 12 months. (TX)
