The Error of any being in the allowance of mileage for the regular session, at which in point of fact, probably no trouble was performed, and that point having been settled favorably to the claimants by the officers of the Govt. at the time, it is now too late to count it — and especially by withholding the mileage for the present session, in which the travel has been actually performed.

Jan 26th May 1838 J. Bridgett
Atty Genl