COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Austin, October 17, 1852.

To .....

Assessor & Collector of ..... County.

Sir---

In my Circular Letter of the 20th of January last, you were informed that the County Court of Bexar County, had, under authority delegated them by the 12th section of the act incorporating the San Antonio Rail-road Company, levied a special tax for Rail-road purposes of fifty cents on every hundred dollars worth of property situated within the limits of said county, in addition to the ordinary county levy, and that it would be your duty hereafter to assess and collect the same on such property situated as aforesaid, as might be rendered to you for taxation. Notwithstanding this notice, I find, on examination of your rolls, that you have omitted to assess said additional tax. This neglect, however, on your part, does not release you from its liability, and I now inform you, that you are held accountable for the same. I would suggest for your own security, that in making your collections, you include the omitted assessment on all property on your rolls to which the same attaches, and make due return thereof to this office,

Very Respectfully Yours,
